

PROBLEM

NUSWhispers

August 29 at 7:40pm · 🌐

With you it was different. You didn't just make me happy, you made me feel at peace, protected, and whole. Even though it was short lived, thank you for teaching me what love feels like.

I hope you're making progress with your battles, and that you'll realise that you are worth so much more, and find the courage to not just settle, no matter what the consequences are. I hope that someday, you'll find someone that loves you as much as or even more than I do. Know that I will never stop loving you, and I'll always keep a part of you in my heart.

After so long, not a day has gone by that I don't think of you. I've never quite experienced hurt and pain like this, but I'd do it all over again anyway. Maybe someday we'll find our way back to each other, but for now, I wish you well. I wonder if I'll ever find love like what we used to have ever again.

I miss you.

EVERYBODY SEEKS LOVE.

DATING APPS DON'T CUT IT.

STIGMA. NOISE. SELF SELECTION BIAS.

NUSHello is awesome because:

You can chat anonymously with other NUS students in realtime.

There's no stigma and everyone's identity is verified.

Those days of leaving the 'one chair away' distance from the stranger in the LT are gone.

Save the seat for your new friend.